I've been reading about Elijah lately — how God provided for him during a three-year drought through very unusual provision. (You can read about it in 1 Kings 17:1-16). It made me think about how many times God's people needed Him to come through during desperate times. Whether it was manna in the wilderness or a land flowing with milk and honey, God always had a promise to offer and a way to provide. Remember that if you're one of the many people going through a lean time right now. And stay encouraged!
